Halebi Romani in Egypt

Halebi is an Egyptian name for Romani. The Halebi reside in the Nile delta in four tribes. They claim to come from Yemen or Syria, but this is uncertain. Traditionally, the men trade in horses and the women practice folk medicine, fortune-telling and divination. Some travel into the Sudan because of economic hardship.

Ministry Obstacles

It may be difficult for the Halebi to trust outsiders.

Outreach Ideas

Christians need to build friendships with these Romani, caring genuinely for their material and physical needs.

Prayer Focus

Pray the few believers among the Romani would grow in sharing and discussing God's Word with their families and neighbors. There may be a few followers of Christ among the Halebi. Pray for these, and pray for the new believers that will soon be evident. Pray in all things they would grow up into him who is the Head,
