Tiyar in Bangladesh

How would life be different without electricity? Most Tiyar people live in villages with little access to electricity or indoor plumbing, and the Bangladeshi government is working to improve their living conditions. The Tiyar people of Bangladesh and India are named after the Sanskrit word for “hunters.”

Ministry Obstacles

The Tiyar people are Hindu, and they believe that they will achieve a form of spiritual freedom through their good deeds. They need a hunger for the spiritual freedom that only Jesus Christ can offer.

Outreach Ideas

Fortunately, the JESUS Film is available in the Tiyar’s language, Bengali. Bengali-speaking believers can take this film to them.
